19 MHS TODAY 91

MHS HISTORY

On October 22, 1969, Mansfield High School was opened for the first time. The opening had been delayed by strikes and bad weather, causing grades 6-12 to undergo dual sessions of school at what is now Qualters Middle School. However, once the new high school was opened, grades 9-12 moved into the new facility. The new Mansfield High School enrollment for the 69-70 school year was 570 students, close to what it is today. Since then, our school has grown into the highly-spirited, competitive, and challenging place it is now.

MANSFIELD'S PLAN FOR A FUTURE

Mansfield High School students all contribute their imaginations and dreams towards a fulfilling school experience that they will, some day, remember fondly. Today they stand high and proud; they are as vital to this building as the concrete and steel which make it up. Although their interests are different, they work together toward the same end: A SUCCESSFUL FUTURE.

Dedicated To Mrs. Jackson

To teach is to touch the future;
to plant a seed for the harvest of tomorrow;
and to insure that tomorrow will exist.
To teach, one needs undying patience,
determination,
hope,
courage,
and love.

Mrs Ann Jackson had all these qualities and used them everyday she came to school to better her students, whether foreign language students or just decent people.

Few teachers are ever forgotten because they touch and improve so many lives, however, Mrs. Jackson has the distinct honor of having the new elementary school co-named on her behalf.

Now, everytime we looks at the Jordan-Jackson Elementary School, we can remember the energy, dedication, and love that Mrs. Ann Jackson brought to Mansfield High School.
